Poisoned Starch for "Slickers.

A recipe for poisoned paste, to be used in exterminating the silverfish or "slicker," is given by the United States de partment of agriculture in Farmers' bulletin 902. This household pest is va-riously known as silver louse, bristletail, etc. It is a small insect that frequently does much damage to books, ar ticles of clothing, or anything upon which there is glue or paste. The silver-fish always shuns the light. It is the small, glistening insect that darts out from shelves and closets when books, clothing or other articles are moved. The rapidity with, which it sourries about, when thus disturbed and its light glistening body explains the names that have been given it. The silverfish is one of the most serious library pests. Because of its fondness for anything of a starchy nature the insect may be eliminated by placing in book shelves, wardrobes, and closets strips of card-board upon which flour paste containing the poison recommended in Farmers Bulletin 202 has been spread. It is possible also to obtain relief by dusting pyrethrum, or bubaon powder, upon book-shelves or other places, but this powder must be removed often as it loses its talue as an insecticide after long exposure to the air.

supplied with live stock than any other European nation. When the German armies made their big advance into France and then retreated virtually all the cattle in the invaded territory - approximately 1,800,000 head-were driven behind the German lines.

But in England-where 2,400,000 acres of pasture lands have been turned into grain fields-the cattle herds are decreasing rapidly. One of the reasons apparently is the declining maximum price scale adopted by the English as follows: For September, $17.76 per 100 pounds; October, $17.28; Sarah J. Mearn, late of Marshfield, in said English as follows: For September, $17.76 per 100 pounds; October, $17.28; November and December, $16.08; Janlary, $14.40. The effect of these prices was to drive beef animals on the marwas to drive beef animals on the mar-

In France the number of cattle as well as the quality have shown an enormous decline during the war. Where France had 14,807,000 head of cattle in 1913, she now has only 12,-341,900, a decrease of 16.6 per cent. And France is today producing only one gallon of milk compared to two and one-half gallons before the war.

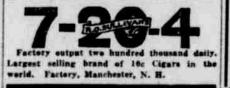

Denmark and Holland have been forced to sacrifice dairy herds for beef because of the lack of necessary feed. Close study of the European meat situation has convinced the Food Administration that the future problem of America lies largely in the production of meat producing animals and dairy products rather than in the production of cereals for export when the war will have ceased.
